

These three months in Croatia have been an amazing experience. I have met interesting people from different parts of the world and, what is more important, some of them have become good friends. I have learnt more than I imagined I would do, not only in the professional field but also in the personal one. I have visited different cities in Croatia and other countries too. I have immersed myself in a new culture and I have enjoyed every aspect of it. Besides, I have learnt how to pronounce more than two consonants in a row in the same word (well, to be honest, I am still working on it). Looking back, I think I have been very lucky to share this experience with the Žmergo team and with the other volunteers I met here. Without them, the experience wouldn't be so enriching so hvala!
